

At World's End we are passionate about engaging the children in the maths. One of the many ways that we aim to do this is by providing all of the children with a subscription to Mathletics.

Mathletics is one of the most popular global maths websites with over 40,000 students using the site each day from around the world. There are over one thousand learning activities covering primary and secondary mathematics.

The children are access to many motivating activites and games that are set at an age appropriate level. Their interest is maintained by gaining points by completing the activities and games. The points can be exchanged for rewards for the children's avitar. The children also earn certificates which the teachers print and award to the children. If the children feels that the children need extra work on a particular topic or would like to set extra homewrok, she can set a 'task' that the child to complete before they can access the games.
